War Chest funds are used to pay for one-time expenditures designed to advance the advocacy priorities of the organization. War Chest expenditures may include, but are not limited to: legal research and writing; economic, demographic or other research; lobbying strategy and support; public or media relations support; issue-oriented advertising; contributions to coalitions of organizations supporting advocacy positions in harmony with those of FSI. War Chest expenditures do not include contributions to candidates for public office, Political Action Committees or political parties and are, therefore, not subject to SEC, MSRB or other "Pay-to-Play" rules. FSI War Chest solicits and accepts funds from FSI members, sponsors and other interested parties. Contributions or gifts to FSI War Chest are not deductible as charitable contributions for Federal income tax purposes. Contribution to FSI's War Chest is strictly voluntary.
